From her mentor in ministry... Pastor Brown is a strong leader in the sense that she knows how to lead and give direction to others. She is collaborative and invites persons to work in partnership with her. She also is a motivator of others and people want to work with and for her.

Danielle loves the Lord, has a personal prayer life, practices the other spiritual disciplines (worship, fasting, study) and is always seeking ways to grow deeper in her walk. She lives a holy life.

From a ministry volunteer... Pastor Brown is easy going and is relatable to all as well as a strong leader willing to lead by example.

I believe that she has multiple areas that are strong but her greatest area of strength I would say is the ability to meet people of all walks of life on different levels.

From a colleague and mentor... Dr. Brown is humble, approachable and sincere. Her love for God, people and the church is transparent. She is congenial and easy to work with. She is a strong leader while also being a team player. Few people are as fit for ecclesiastical leadership as she.

Dr. Brown is a woman of integrity with a commitment to spiritual disciplines that make for exemplary moral leadership. Her greatest area of strength is compassion. She cares deeply about people.

Danielle is going to help a church become a very impactful and significant church. And her voice is quickly becoming one of the influential voices of her generation. I hold her in the highest esteem.

From two employees... I think that Danielle Brown is a very adaptive person which translates into being an adaptive leader. While she is visionary, charismatic and inspiring, she is also highly attentive to those who she leads and knows how to work at the intersection of her vision and their felt needs. She is also excellent at galvanizing diverse teams.

...When you consistently walk with God, others will be able to recognize that, though you are flawed and imperfect, you have been with Jesus. This is Dr. Danielle Brown. She walks with God... and if you make her your leader, it means that you would be submitting this body of believers to a new level and season in Christ through the vessel know as Dr. Danielle Brown.

Pastor Brown is relational and hands on but still strong in leading God's people in teaching and preaching God's Word. Her ability to remember your children's names and spend time with them after church, attending special activities of family and giving wise council to parents is what she does naturally.

From a friend of 25 years... In "Dani" you would be getting a cutting edge visionary, servant, spirit- and heart-led leader. In these troubling times the church needs strong voices with character and integrity to lead God's people to their next [season].

"Dani's" ability as a leader cannot be questioned. She is everything you would want in a pastor. She prays consistently for the people, cares for the people, gives to the people, empowers the people, is always looking for ways to draw people to Christ and not herself. _____ ▲ ▲ ▲
